INTRODUCTION

Nueta Hidatsa Sahnish (NHS) College was tribally chartered by the Three Affiliated Tribes (Mandan, Hidatsa, Arikara) on the Fort Berthold Reservation in 1973. The College's main campus is located in New Town, North Dakota but has satellite classrooms in four of the five other segments on the reservation: White Shield, Parshall, Mandaree and Twin Buttes. The College was formerly known as Fort Berthold Community College, but was changed via a Tribal Business Council resolution on March 27, 2015 to more appropriately reflect the culture of the Mandan, Hidatsa and Arikara tribal members.

NHS College was first granted accreditation on February 12, 1988 via the Higher Learning Commission (HLC) and has continued its accreditation. NHS College was approved by HLC on February 21, 2011 to offer three baccalaureate programs, a significant accomplishment to facilitate students earning a four-year degree without having to leave Fort Berthold. The mission and vision of the College has changed little since its inception and continues to be an inspiration to the faculty and staff who strive to make life better for their students.

RETENTION RATES

Retention, persistence, completion and graduation are important terms in higher education. Nueta Hidatsa Sahnish College has been working to ensure all of its data is clean so we can accurately report these rates. We have also recently submitted our data to the National Student Clearinghouse to partner with them in their Post-Secondary Data Partnership program (PDP). By taking part in the PDP, we will be able to accurately determine the students who have transferred to another institution to complete their education; as well as, benchmark ourselves against other TCU's.

Retention vs Persistence

NHSC measures its retention rate by determining the students who maintained their enrollment for Fall to Fall, year over year. And we measure our persistence rate by determining which students maintained their enrollment from Fall to Spring of the same academic year.
